Transformation Webinar For Enterprises and Service Firms

In this 30-minute session, we will focus on the execution model of transformation and how it is being transformed via modern Enterprise Orchestration. This webinar is for executives who want to gain insights into how this new model is delivering 3x transformation success over traditional operating models, and who want to discover examples of successful cost-reduction transformation and the many use cases that can benefit from this new execution model.

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN

- What is Enterprise Orchestration
- Why transformation leaders are embracing it
- What are the benefits including several enterprise cost-reduction case studies

- How to determine if Enterprise Orchestration is right for your company

Frequently asked questions

What is enterprise orchestration?

An execution model for transformation that brings people, processes, and technology together on one platform with real-time data, governance, and benefits tracking, replacing the periodic-reporting, spreadsheet-driven model most programs still use. The webinar covers how it works and how to judge whether it fits your organization.

How much more successful are transformations run on an orchestration model?

Programs run on an orchestration model are delivering roughly three times the transformation success of traditional operating models, a figure drawn from Constellation Research's assessment of Conductor deployments and the basis for the case studies in the session.

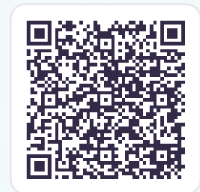

Which transformation use cases benefit most from enterprise orchestration?

Cost-reduction programs are the most common because they have clear financial targets that benefit from initiative-level tracking, but the same model applies to post-merger integration, procurement transformation, ESG programs, and PE value creation. The session presents several enterprise cost-reduction examples.
